WILLOUGHBY-EASTLAKE RECEIVES NATIONAL RECOGNITION

In August of 2015, Willoughby-Eastlake launched its first attempt at a STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) platform school. This school was established to serve as an instructional model for all other schools in the district. Recently, these ideas have received national recognition.

Following a rigorous interview process, Willoughby-Eastlake has been chosen to be featured on the Discovery Channel. The series highlights innovation in 21st century education. Representatives of the Discovery Channel will be filming during the next several weeks. Once the filming process has been completed, the show is scheduled to be aired in mid-February. This recognition combined with a recent proclamation from Senator Yuko, stating, "Among those familiar, your name has become synonymous with creativity and ingenuity, and considering your trailblazing efforts, it is no surprise that you have won a host of admirers," showcases the results of the efforts of our district and the community.
